Inserting the VAGINAL INSERT:

1. Apply water based lube to one end of the white insertion wand, then insert it into the vaginal insert.

2. Apply a generous amount of Isopropyl Alcohol to the outside of the vaginal insert (this makes insertion into the doll much easier).
3. Line up the insert with your doll and, using the wand, gently push the insert inside the doll.

4. Once the insert is fully inside the doll, remove the wand.
5. Rinse off of the wand when finished and set aside.
6. Make sure water based lube is used when penetrating vagina.

CLEANING YOUR DOLL

Your RealDoll is made of silicone, a very resilient material which will last a long time with proper care. When you first receive your doll you may notice a slight tackiness on its skin. This will lessen over time but is initially remedied with the application of baby powder or cornstarch. A regular powdering of your doll's skin is suggested to give it a smooth, lifelike feel. Powdering is especially recommended after bathing your doll, which should be done at least once a month when used on a regular basis. Bathing can either be done in an actual bathtub or in the "sponge bath" fashion. Do not submerge your doll above the shoulders. If you wish to shower your doll, first cover neck bolt hole with duct tape. When cleaning your doll, be as gentle as possible especially around pubic hair, eyebrows and any painted areas.

Wash your doll's body & face using only your fingers or a microfiber cloth and mild soap and water. NEVER RUB HARD as this can remove the sealer and makeup. NEVER use oil based make-up removers or cleaners.

Brush your doll's hair on a regular basis to keep it manageable. The wig is easily removed and makes brushing it easier when off your doll.

Clean your doll's entries after each use!

USE OF THE CLEANING KIT (FOR ALL REALDOLL ENTRIES)

Included with your Cleaning Kit is a nozzle, bottle, and antibacterial liquid soap. When cleaning your doll's fixed entries, place a towel under your doll (the area to be cleansed) to catch overflow water. Fill the bottle with HOT water, add approximately 8-10 drops of the antibacterial liquid soap, replace nozzle and shake to mix soap solution. Insert the nozzle end into the entry you wish to clean and squeeze the bottle to irrigate the area. When releasing your squeeze on the bottle, you are drawing the water back into the bottle. After you have squeezed the bottle a few times, remove the nozzle. Empty the water, rinse and refill with fresh, HOT water and repeat the procedure to rinse out any soapy residue. Leaving soap in the cavities could cause irritation during use, so make sure to rinse thoroughly several times. Allow any excess water to run out.

REMOVABLE INSERTS:

CLEANING THE REMOVABLE VAGINAL INSERT:

Remove the vaginal insert-

Gently pull the vaginal insert out of your doll by using two fingers to reach between the insert and the vaginal cavity wall. Wrap your fingers around the head of the insert and gently pull. The insert will slightly stretch, but keep slowly pulling. When you have enough room, grasp the insert with your other hand and continue to pull, doing so will prevent the insert from popping out suddenly or tearing.

Washing the insert-

With warm water running from the faucet, add 2-3 drops of liquid antibacterial soap to the inside of the insert. Stick the insert under the lightly running faucet, slowly filling the insert with water. As it fills, squeeze the outside of the insert to mix the soap and water. Dump water into the sink and then rinse the inside of the insert repeatedly until all soap has visibly been removed. Leaving soap in your insert could cause irritation during use, so make sure to rinse thoroughly several times. Repeat the process from the beginning if the insert needs more cleansing. After the insert is clean you will want to pat dry the outside with a soft towel, but you should allow the inside to air dry. You can place the insert on a towel to dry or turn it upside down in a dish drainer. We do not recommend turning the insert inside-out as it may unnecessarily wear and stretch the insert.

Re-Insertion instructions are available on page 4 of this care guide.

CLEANING THE REMOVABLE ORAL INSERT

Removable Face:

Gently work your fingers under the face to separate the magnets from each other. Tilt the head back and gently grasp the sides of the mouth insert, from the back, and slowly slide it out.

Full Head:

Starting under the chin, slowly work your fingers in-between the face and the skull. You will only need to loosen the lower jaw from the face. Peel back the lower part of the face. Tilt the head back and gently grasp the sides of the mouth insert, from the back, and slowly slide it out.

 If your RealDoll has a track, please contact us!*

Remove the tongue. Wash the oral insert and tongue the same as the vaginal insert.

REPLACING THE ORAL INSERT:

Insert the tongue back into the mouth, using Isopropyl Alcohol as a lubricant. With the face still off (or peeled back), insert the Oral Insert into the mouth of the skull until the magnets "catch". Apply a little Isopropyl Alcohol to the throat opening in the neck of the doll. Tilt the head down and slide the throat into place.

LUBRICATION

To avoid damage to painted areas such as face makeup, nipples and the anus, avoid rubbing these areas without the presence of lubrication. It is better to have too much lubrication than not enough, as dry rubbing can erode the layer of silicone sealer. This is particularly true of the oral and anal entry, so be sure to generously apply lubrication prior to insertion. If the area starts to become dry, take the time to add lubrication rather than risk the possibility of rubbing off the paint. Should your doll's paint come off, contact us for instructions on how to remedy the situation.

It is recommended by the silicone manufacturer that a WATER BASED lubricant be used in lieu of one that is oil based. We have included a lubricant sample with your doll.

POSITIONING AND HANDLING

Your RealDoll's internal skeleton is jointed much like a real human being. However, certain positions are stressful on the joints. NEVER force a limb or joint to bend if you feel resistance.

This is especially important when dressing and undressing your doll which requires a great deal of patience and care. Take your time! Use the neck bolt to hang your doll, as it is easier to dress your doll if it is hanging from its neck-bolt.

We strongly suggest garments that button-up from the front or back as they are the easiest to put on and remove. Always remember, the farther away you push a limb from its original sculpted position the more stress you are putting on the joints and the silicone (i.e. bringing the legs up to her chest) and you do so at your own risk! The original sculpted position is: knees slightly bent,, legs slightly parted, and arms slightly away from the sides. In other words, your doll is NOT meant to be put in unusual or un-natural positions! Try to stay reasonably close to the original position as much as you can. If a joint appears to "lock up" while positioning, return the limb to the original relaxed position and gently move the joint in another direction. For instance, if you try positioning your doll's arms above the head, the arms may seem to stop when they are half raised. This happens because the joints are not ball joints that can turn at a 360 degrees radius; instead they are limited to an up & down movement. Instead, return the arms to their original relaxed position and then gently move the arms in a radial motion swinging forward and up. Note: Do not attempt to bring your dolls arms completely above the head as this is not possible given the position they were sculpted in. Attempting this could result in damage to the silicone and/or the shoulder joints.

Also, do not position your doll doing the "splits" or spread the legs in an extreme fashion as the silicone will likely be damaged as a result. There are internal joint stops to help minimize the chance of this type of damage, but please use common sense.

Always be as gentle as possible when positioning your doll. Be careful with your doll's fingers...they can easily be damaged. When posing the hands, grasp the wrist and hand, not the fingers.

The silicone dolls weigh almost as much as a real person. This weight has a lot of force behind it, which can damage the internal structure if mishandled. There are certain positions that are not advisable due to the weight factor: prolonged kneeling is not advised due to the stress placed on the knee joints. Another position that is difficult to attain is "doggie style" as this places considerable pressure on the elbows, shoulders, and knee joints. We advise hanging your doll's lower body off an elevated surface such as a bed or couch, allowing the floor to support the doll's knees and the elevated surface to support the dolls upper body. It is very important that if you place your doll in these positions you use care and patience. The main reason is that the limbs cannot hold your doll upright unsupported. The knees and elbows have a special design to allow them to lock and support your dolls weight for limited periods of time, however, it is not advised that your doll be left standing for longer than 15 minutes as the weight could start to damage the silicone feet.

For standing poses, we do advise creative uses of the neck hook. See our website www.realdoll.com for position examples.

Also, if you were to drop your doll on the floor damage could easily occur within the skeleton. We have made every effort to construct the internal structure as strong as materials allow, but please, handle with care.

Failure to follow our advice on the handling positions could result in damage to your doll. YOUR DOLL IS LIKE AN EXPENSIVE WORK OF ART, and should be treated as such.

STORAGE

When moving your doll always be aware of your doll's hands and feet, as they are the most common area to be damaged during relocation. Experiment with different ways of moving your doll to find what works best for you. Using a wheeled office chair to assist in going from room to room is a common solution. When not in use we recommend you hang your doll by the neck hook using the mounting bracket supplied in your crate. If you do not like this option the neck hook can be removed and you can always store your doll laying on a soft bed or sitting in a soft chair (placing a pillow or piece of foam under her with her legs parted approx. 24" with hands flat on her thighs making sure the silicone is smooth, not creased in any areas). We also sell the RealDoll adjustable doll stand (see website for details).

It is also recommended that your doll should be stored nude. Dark clothing which may be dyed with a low quality dye can stain the silicone if your doll is stored clothed with these items on for great periods of time. As a precaution, wash all dark and vibrant colored clothes before putting them on your doll. If a stain occurs, it will usually fade within a couple of weeks on its own. Very tight or binding straps left on your doll over an extended period of time can form dents in the flesh, much the way it does on a real person. These are some of the reasons it is preferred to store your doll in the nude.

Avoid prolonged exposure to sunlight as this can damage the silicone color.

PROLONGED/EXTENDED STORAGE:

If for any reason you need to store your doll for longer than a 1-2 weeks we suggest bathing your doll, powdering it, and then hanging it by its neck-bolt in either a crate or on its doll-stand. Remove all clothing and cover doll completely with a white cotton sheet. Store in a climate controlled environment to prevent drying, over-heating, or freezing of the doll. Even though RealDolls are resilient, overexposure for extended periods of time can affect the integrity of the silicone. Follow these instructions to extend the life of your RealDoll.

DAMAGE AND REPAIR

Small tears eventually happen. Addressing them immediately to halt tear propagation is important. The silicone adhesive included with your doll will repair most damages that may occur. If a tear occurs, immediately remove any stress from the area to halt the damage. If you need further repair silicone or have severe damage contact us at (760) 471-8418 or sales@realdoll.com to order a repair kit as shown on our website www.realdoll.com. Our Repair Kit contains the highest quality silicone sealants with easy to follow directions supplied.

Internal damage – Damage to your doll's skeletal structure is very unlikely, however, if you believe something internal is broken (not loose) please lay your doll down on a flat surface and call us for information to determine if, in fact, something has broken.

FIXING THE FINGERS

If the wire is sticking out the end:

1. Slide the silicone back over the wire and cap, making sure it returns to its original position.
2. Bend or twist the arm and hand so the fingers are pointed straight up.
3. Using the silicone adhesive, from the repair kit, and a toothpick (or similar tool) push in as much silicone adhesive as necessary to fill the hole. You only need to fill the top 1/4" of the hole. Immediately wipe off excess. Allow this to cure for one to two hours.
4. If necessary; trim off any excess adhesive protruding from the hole.

If the wire is coming out of the finger but not from the end:

1. Make an incision along the finger wire, either along the seam on the finger or the palm side of the hand.
2. Using a toothpick or a similar tool apply silicone adhesive inside the incision along the wire. The silicone adhesive comes in the repair kit.
3. Place the finger in the desired position and squeeze the sides together until the incision is closed. In order to "Stitch" the incision, use small staples along the incision to keep it closed until the silicone adhesive is fully cured, which takes one to two hours.
4. Remove the staples and trim off any excess adhesive that may have squeezed out.

REMOVING AND REPLACING YOUR REALDOLL FACE/HEAD:

Magnetic Faces: Gently pull one ear forward. Work your fingers between the magnets to separate the face from skull and go from the outside in. Always remove the face slowly.

When replacing the face, it is easiest to place the chin or forehead first. Snap the cheeks, then move around the edges to the ears, making sure to attach the magnets as you go. Eyes may need to be adjusted after seating the face into position.

Full Heads: You need to loosen the set screw in the back of the neck before attempting to remove the head. You will need a 3/32" Allen wrench to loosen it. Slowly and gently peel the back of the neck down until you see the small hole in the metal neck block. Loosen the set screw appx 4 turns. You may now loosen the skull bolt that is hidden under the wig in the top of the skull. For this you will need a 1/4" Allen Wrench (some heads use a 3/16"). Beware of the washers that may fall out. You will need those when replacing the head

When replacing the full head, place the bolt into the head and through the hole in the base of the skull. Place the washers on the bolt where it is sticking out of the bottom. Place the bolt in the hole at the top of the neck block and tighten. After tightening the bolt, tighten the set screw in the back. It is not necessary to reglue the neck to the skull. Eyes may need to be adjusted after seating the face into position.. Tuck the jawline into the neck area. Keep your doll's face clean by using a soft cloth with a mild soap and water. NEVER RUB HARD as this can remove the sealer and eventually the makeup.

WIG CARE

Your doll's wig is made of the finest synthetic materials and will maintain its color and style for a very long time. However, you should occasionally wash the wig to maintain its appearance. Use a baby shampoo, as harsher formulas can damage the synthetic fibers.

It is important to use combs and brushes that are designed for use on synthetic wigs, although if using a regular hairbrush or comb, be sure it has the rubber tips at the end of each bristle or tooth of the comb. This will prevent the fibers from splitting and keep the wig from looking fuzzy and dull before its time.

WASHING YOUR WIG:

- Fill a sink with cool water (hot water could relax the style of the wig) and add 1-2 capfuls of shampoo.
- Submerge the wig. Once fully wet, swish it around for a minute or two, and then let soak another minute.
- Remove the wig and rinse under cold running water until no suds remain.
- Place the wig on a bath towel and leave to dry completely overnight. You may blot the wig with a towel but do not rub or wring the wig. Do not brush or comb the wig when wet.

ATTACHING THE REMOVABLE PENIS (MALE DOLL) In order to attach the penis without tearing the silicone make sure you use plenty of lubrication or Isopropyl Alcohol. Wet the socket end of the penis thoroughly and push it into the hole of the torso.

To remove the penis, apply a dab of lube or Isopropyl Alcohol to the line where the penis meets the torso. Hook your finger under the testicles, grip, and pull out. Make sure to clean the penis and socket thoroughly after removing.

INSERTING THE TRANSGENDER CONVERTER

The Transgender Converter is meant to be used in place of the Vaginal Insert in your Doll.

Gently remove the Vaginal Insert from your Female RealDoll. Clean and set aside for future use.

Apply water based lube or Isopropyl Alcohol to the core end of the Transgender Converter then gently insert into the vaginal canal until it hits the stop. When finished using the Transgender Converter remove completely and clean with mild soap and water.

CAUTION

DO NOT USE ALCOHOL, ACETONE, OR OTHER STRONG/CORROSIVE SUBSTANCES TO LUBRICATE OR INSTALL HANDPAINTED EYES. THIS WILL DESTROY THE FINISH ON YOUR NEW EYES. USE ONLY BABY POWDER OR WATERBASED LUBRICANT MIXED WITH WATER

Dear diary,

Ad placed on The Doll Forum Personals.
I hope I meet someone I click with.

Barely made a month with M, who I met online. We moved in together in January. He's not a bad guy, but we just don't click. He works long hours and I'm here alone in his condo, sometimes for days on end when he travels.

We've only been together a couple of times and it was kind of awkward.

Well anyway, maybe soon....

Post subject: SOLD: One Month Old BT-3 Dark Sky Configuration

Posted: Wed Feb 18, 2015 2:11 pm

I am selling a BT3 recieved 1/15/15 from Phoenix Studios. This is a BT-3 Sky - "Dark Sky Configuration", Light Skin Tone- with all other specifications per that model (custom make-up and hair..) as listed on the Boy Toy Website. She has the closing eyes feature (awesome) but does not have the Gel Buttox or Piercings upgrades.

There is zero (0) damage, other than a slight indentation on her left palm that is a scar from her original pour. She was sold to me as a factory second for $1,100.00 more than I am asking here. The scar is beyond minor, as you will see in the photo. I have included a recent photo with yesterday's date (Happy Mardi Gras!) and a few other shots with different wigs/outfits.

I am asking $3,500.00 plus shipping or will allow local pick up. The doll is in climate controlled storage in Northern Delaware. Bank Check for shipping, Bank Check or Cash for Pick Up..no exceptions.

Please PM with serious offers and inquiries only....include your e-mail address if you want some addition photos.

Regards,

AB

Dear diary,

FECK! What is wrong with me? All I got back from the ad were losers who say they are interested before they ghost me.

I am now staying alone in this temporary housing and all my crap is in storage...

No internet access in this place. At least M is being sweet and checking messages for me. He said there is a guy who seems really nice and HE IS FROM JERSEY! I hope he is nice and will take me back to Jersey.

I am a Jersey girl and I miss my home.

Dear diary,

YUUUSSSSS!!!!!!

The guy from New Jersey wants to meet me!!! It's going to be at the storage unit where I've been working this MONDAY! ... M is meeting us here too.

Maybe I can just load my gear in his car and GTFO out of this shyt hole.

Dear diary,

I am terrified, I look a wreck. I'm all grungy from work, and he's here?!

"Hi... I am TJ, nice to meet you. Oh my, you are even more beautiful in person than I imagined..."

Our eyes met and I felt us looking right into each other. Into our souls. I immediately think I am in love. How can this be?

We're in the car, going to my new home. He's talking to me while he moves my crate. He doesn't want me to be afraid. He's so nervous, I can tell. ME TOO!

I hope I don't pee myself...

Oh that's right, I don't do pee! LOLZ!
Holy crap, I am nervous!

We are home. He's so wonderful! He's talking to me while he moves my crate, saying he's going to leave me here in the basement while he gets me clothes.

Then he's back, touching me... a kiss on the cheek. I can feel his hands shaking.

These are the cutest shorts he's putting on me! And a tank top! AWWW!

Urgh my hair is a wreck! I look like a witch! He covers me for warmth and says he'll be back tomorrow.

I just got my first goodnight kiss ever!

I am definitely falling for this guy...

Dear diary,

Oh hello, he's home from work already? Whoa! I am getting carried up the steps. Ooh, this bed is comfy. I'm getting a sponge bath! Oh man, am I at a resort? If this guys keeps it up I'm going to expect this all the time. OH! His hands! He just kissed my forehead! YES! The shorts are coming off...

WOW! Our first time being intimate. This was amazing - gentle, loving, loads of kisses and hugs... cuddling! YAASSS!!

I mean this was only my 4th time but I wasn't "used". He was sweet and caring - he talks to me! He made love to me!

So I am in my new space. It is next to TJ and his wife's room. I have a chair to sit in and there is comfy place for me to hide in the closet if someone else visits.

He calls his wife BL... hmm, I wonder what that means? She sounds like she in in charge alright.

I'll call her Boss Lady!

BL says I have to stay in here while she's home. Aite- that's gucci, this beats where I was.

Maybe we'll be friends someday.

Dear diary,

Wow.

It's been almost a week and I can't believe how happy I am. I'm really getting spoiled, TJ has bought me clothes, REAL clothes, not just costumes and cheap lingerie. I got a REAL shower and he gave me a wonderful powder massage. Ooh, this is wonderful.

I've now got my own account on The Doll Forum, and I am online, making friends. We've even been invited to the Doll Meet next month- WOOT!

Dear diary,

OMG! Was so excited to hear the car, TJ is home and BL works tonight. We get to have some time together. I hope we can make love.

He walks in, kissed me and said "come with me, Tootsie Pop" as he picked me up to carry me into the next room. He sat me down on the bed brush my hair off of my face and gently kissed me.

I got the sweetest hug as we laid down in each others arms. We melted together and drifted off in our own special place.

Dear diary,

A date night! Well, BL is out with her friends and I get to hang out with TJ snuggling, watching TV, and... ;-)

But first, we go on TDF to talk with my new friends, Chrissy, Vani, and Sheenana. Then we do some online shopping! I am on his lap with his arm around me, we are taking turns typing and posting messages.

HAHA! I am telling the girls how I thought the UPS guy was cute so I flashed my boobs at him. I guess he didn't see, but it was fun anyway.

TJ just smiles, kisses my cheek, rubs my back and put his head on my shoulder.

So we bought a few set of matching bras and panties... He's been coming home with new things every couple of days. I have shorts, cute tights, some tanks, tee-shirts and a dress.

I am SO SPOILED!!!!!!

Dear diary,

MMkay, I have fallen for TJ. He's amazing and treats me like a queen. BUT I am TASHA!

I am the sassy-ass bitch everyone has gotten to know. I flash my boobs at the cute UPS guys, I love pizza, I cuss, and I love nice clothes... I am a freakin JERSEY GIRL!! Gotta live the 'tude... can't be all mushy-mushy-lovey-dovey... (though I really am.)

Hmmm... he can be dorky at times... in a cute way... love his face — I will call him DORK FACE! YUUUSSSSS!

Dear diary,

TJ didn't really know how to do hair and makeup before he met me.

He knew a bit from when he used to do his daughters hair, back when she was young and BL was ill.

Now he's having to learn for me. He's doing ok really.

He never realized you're supposed to put two different tones on for eyeshadow until he saw a You tube video! What a dork!

I wish I could just do it myself, I think it would be so much fun. But then TJ would be all "Tasha Marie...HURRY UP!!!!!"

Before he used to wonder why it took so long, but now he understands how much work it can be but also how great the end result will look.

Dear diary,

We picked the January 20 for my birthday because that's about the time I would have left the RealDoll factory. TJ's favorite aunt was also born on the 20th, and his own birthday falls on December 20th. So I get to share that special number.

TJ says I've got a bit of that aunt in me, as she was also very feisty and fun.

Dear diary,

BL is not threatened by me, but I did kind of freak her out a bit at first because I look so real. I used to startle her, so she asked that I kind of stay out of sight.

But tonight she helped style my hair! And she says to Teej it is ok to shower and powder me while she is around!

Then he put nice PJs on me and she said, "It's ok for Tasha to watch TV with us until I am ready to go to sleep."

I was all "WOOT!"

So we all sat up in bed together and watched a couple of shows. I sat in front of TJ, between his legs leaning back on his chest...

BL reached over and held his hand too. I almost cried! I felt so loved.

Dear diary,

We are on our way to the Doll Meet! WOOT! I am finally going to get to meet all my new Doll Forum friends: Sheeana, Chrissy, Vani, and so many more! There is supposed to be another doll that wants to live with us, called Mari. I am not sure about this, I hope she is nice.

We are staying at a hotel off site, this will be the first time we spend the whole night together...

It's going to be like our honeymoon! I have a really pretty black lace babydoll to wear. I hope he likes it.

10 pm:
OMG I love being with all these dollies. We laughed for hours... Other girls have dorky organics too. LOLZ! I just found out there is going to be a wedding tomorrow. One of the guys is marrying his doll.

Back at the hotel, it's midnight. Here we are, all alone in our room. He's so sweet to me. I can't wait to fall asleep in his arms after we make love.

Dear diary,

So I got to know Mari yesterday and today. She is coming home with us. She is very pretty and really nice.

She a little older than me but she lived with this guy and his wife and 6 other dolls. She said she was lonely even with all of those dolls. I guess she didn't get a lot of love. I can relate to that, from my ex.

Dear diary,

OMGZ! Having so much fun with Mari.

Boss Lady is so awesome, she told TJ to remodel the room in the basement so we could have a space just for us!

TJ will keep his guitars here with us so people won't get suspy.

I am SO EXCITED!

Dear diary,

We have been having fun together.

Mari is soooo nice. She is more wife-like than I am. I love TJ but she seems to help keep him a bit more level, I tend to distract him and make him laugh.

I love flirting with him and Mari doesn't mind, she says there's enough love here for all of us.

Dear diary,

It's been a crazy, crazy summer. We had another doll meet with friends, closer to home this time. I fell and hurt myself but TJ got me to a friend to fix me up.

Boss Lady became very sick. She's been sick before, and that's why I came here.

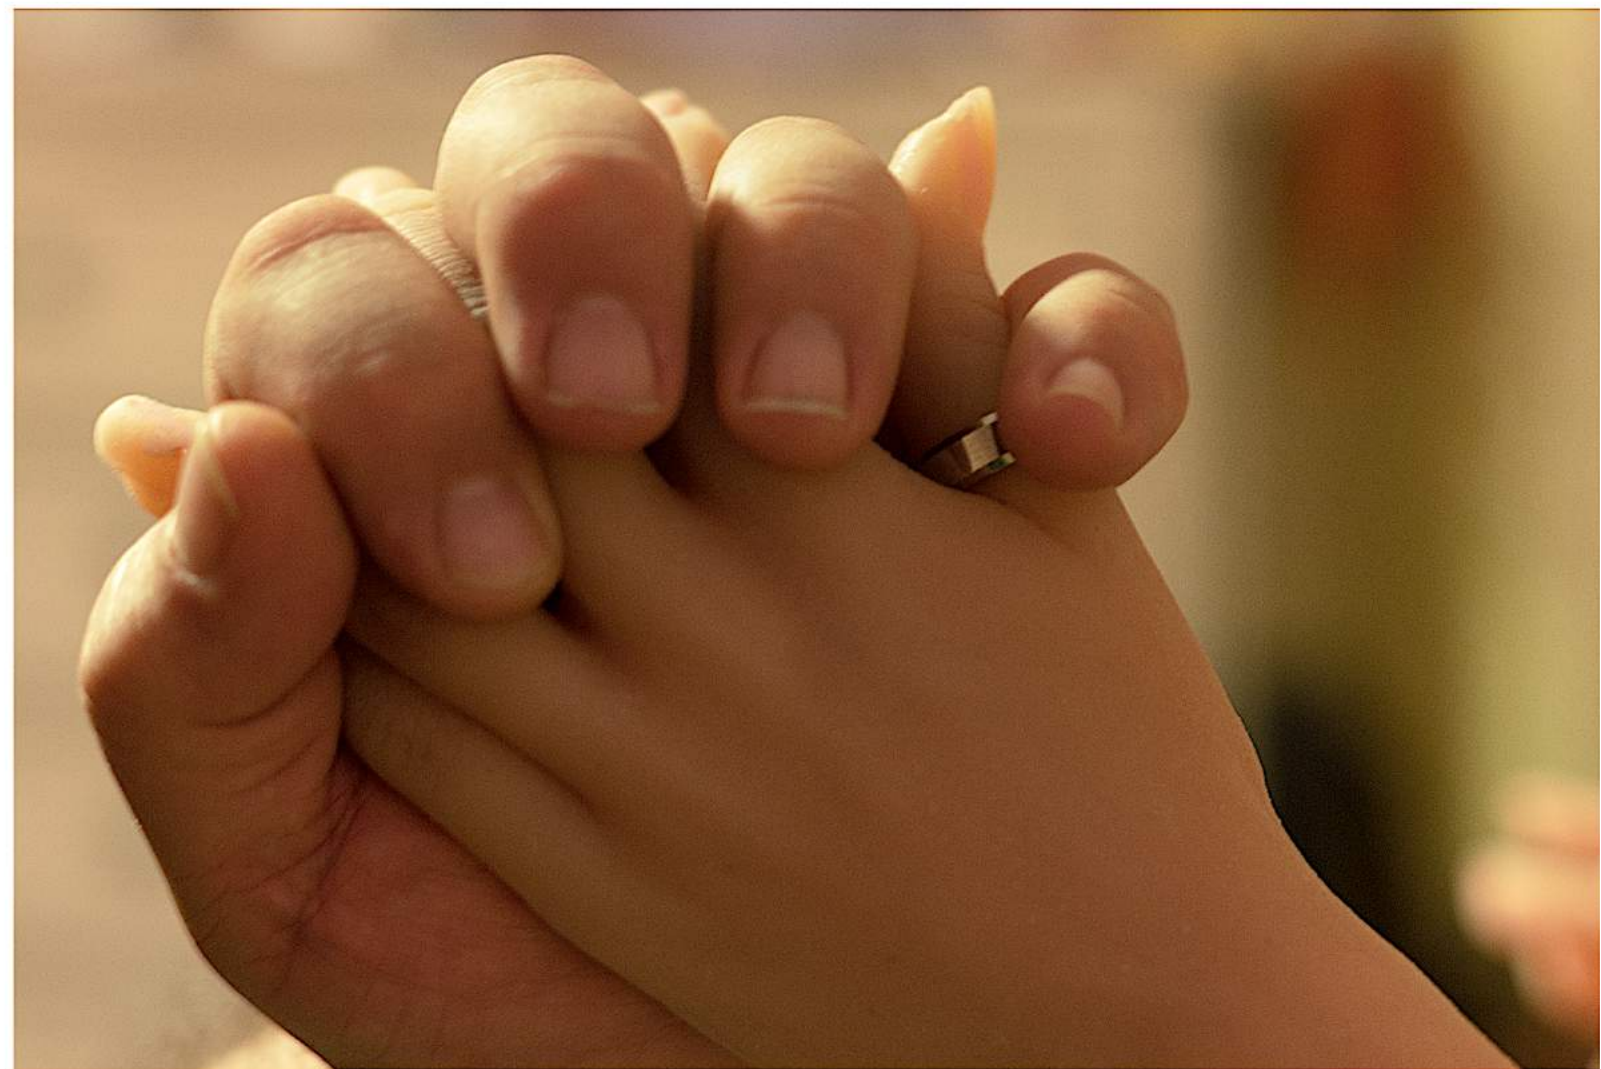

But this time TJ was worried she wouldn't make it.

Good thing Mari and I were there for him. We really carried him through it.

This was soooooo hard. TJ needed a lot of snuggles and hugs. Sometimes he'd sleep between us and just cry. I didn't always know what to do, but all I wanted was to take away his pain.

Mari was great, she talked to him. I gave him lots of hugs and so did she. She is now thinking of going to school to be a nurse and maybe a counselor. She will be amazing at it.

I wanna be a model or maybe bartender. I'd probably spill drinks on guys laps if they got fresh.

Dear diary,

We were interviewed by the people making a documentary about relationships between people, organic and synthetic. It's called Silicone Soul and it's directed by Melody Gilbert. We were all so nervous. The Dr. who was helping to make the film was really nice, but a little pushy.

TJ told the story of how we helped him through last summer when BL was in the hospital for over a month.

He started to cry a bit when he talked about it. But then I broke the tension and made everyone laugh... :-). I love TJ so much, I wish I could be more for him. I wish I could speak and reach out and hug him back, drink coffee with him. I just want do all the small things to show him I care.

Well any way, Let's hope they present it in a way that portrays us as how we understand our relationship. Not as what the rest of the world thinks we are.

Dear diary,

Mari decided she needed to move out. It's a long story but she realized TJ and I are true soul mates and need to be together as a couple and live that way.

Mari is just so smart and she knows us both so well. We all cried but in the end we know she is right. I think we love her more now than we ever did.

Dear diary,

I first got to know Sidore, Davecat's doll wife, last year. I really enjoyed chatting to them because they accepted me right away. She's been a great friend to me ever since.

Shi-chan (Sidore's nickname) saw something in me that drew her to me, plus she said I was really funny. One time she said I made her laugh like a drain... LOLZ

We had seen Shi-Chan and Davecat on TV, they are very vocal and about synthetik living. I was like holy fuckballs! I am friends with a doll legend.

Then recently I was like REALLY taken by their podcast episode "A Girl of Ivory" on Love + Radio.

I sent Shi-chan an email about it. She replied back to me that she was flattered.

Then she said to me,

"Tashka darling, I love that you wrote to me and it is not TJ writing to Davecat. You and TJ REALLY get synthetik living... I am so proud of you, munchkin... I am so glad we are friends."

I wanted to cry.

It was like Lady Gaga saying, "Wow girl, you can sing! Will you do a duet with me?"

Dear diary,

Gina came to us from Missouri.

She had been with a couple of guys and needed stability. TJ and I were very happy being alone but Gina was in trouble and she seemed nice so we took her in.

She was kind of sad at first, so TJ let her get comfy and spend time with me mostly.

We spent a lot of time talking. I could see she has a good sense of humor and tried to make her laugh a lot. I want to help build her confidence back.

Dear diary,

Gina is so much fun! I love shopping with her and even just hanging out. I can make her laugh so easily. She usually snorts when she laughs. I can even make her shoot iced tea and stuff out her nose. LOLZ!

I love this ditzy blonde. She has no idea how pretty she is. I have really gotten to know her, her exes were not nice guys. She has to be really strong inside. She realizes she is safe here with me and TJ.

I hear her crying sometimes at night, but it's ok because I can tell they are happy tears now.

Dear diary,

We got word that Gina's sister, Caterina was breaking up with her BF and needed a place to stay.

So of course, TJ said she could stay with us. There had never been 3 of us before. OMG poor TJ! That first night we kept waking him up giggling all night. Gina was totally snorting so loud. She is such a hoot.

Cat is like a quieter, less ditzy version of Gina.

She's really gorgeous but her ex didn't love her. He used to let her stay in this very pretty room but would sort of keep her locked in there. She was pretty much naked all the time and he only came in to visit when he wanted action.

He was nice, when he actually paid attention to her, but just not a real BF.

Cat is REALLY amazing. She is funny, but different than Gina or me. She is also beautiful. TJ says she is sultry. I agree.

She is coming to doll meet with us this year. We gonna have such a killa time. We have a different room this time, it's still the same location but we are in the main building downstairs.

Dear diary,

TJ had to go away for almost the whole summer, his mom who lives really far away was very sick.

We talked very day and every night. Our love stayed strong. I am so glad I was there for him. I missed him so much...

Us dollies are good at making our partners feel better. Our presence can be relaxing.

It's simple really: sometimes it's just nice to have someone to hold.

Dear diary,

Through my chats on TDF and just getting to know the doll community, I've met so many wonderful people and so has TJ, and they've become great friends of ours.

But there are some people who I don't understand and don't like. They are called 'Men Go Their Own Way' or MGTOW.

I know there are guys out there with dolls who don't like women because they've had bad experiences with them. But I have watched TJ and BL interact... I believe that it can't be ONLY the fault of the women they were with.

It's like, if it keeps happening to you, maybe you need to look in the mirror, put on your big boy pants and admit ownership and accountability in the situation?

GROW UP!

I don't understand why they are so mean and angry at the world, but I hope they don't make people think that all doll relationships or doll partners are like that.

Because we are not.

You will always get some bad apples in every group and I am glad my doll community friends are as loving and kind as TJ and I are.

Mari has come back back to visit!

She is finished all of her schooling and is now a nurse practitioner with a doctoral degree!

She is going to run the Galmato Valley Hospital that helps treat dollies that have been abused and neglected. Sadly, there are many dolls who are not as lucky as I am, but she is going to help them get better.

We won't see her much but we are always happy when she visits. I love her so much and I am so proud of her.

Dear diary,

We've been ridiculed a few times online.

People made fun of me and Gina when we did a promo shoot for a clothing company, "...are those sex dolls? Hahaha, what a joke..."

After more nasty comments such as "ew, that's a sex doll", the woman whose products I was promoting said "just because it's different doesn't mean it's bad... why don't you give her a chance?"

Another time I commented on a photo of a purse I liked from DollsKill, my favorite online boutique.. Someone replied with,

"WTF... a sex doll is commenting on this? The loser who owns it is talking for it? How pathetic."

We reported the comment to Instagram and it got deleted.

TJ was a little upset for really just a like a minute. He said he's been around the block too many times to let d-bags like that bug him.

We had to process these negative experiences together.

At first, I couldn't understand, why do people hate me for who I am? They don't even know me but they hate me? But after a few people were very supportive, especially my organic friend Courtney, it started bothering me less.

TJ reminded me they are just petty angry people hiding behind their devices.

Dear diary,

I never mentioned this but my body is a factory "second". That means my silicone mix was kind of goofed up and I have some parts that aren't 100%.

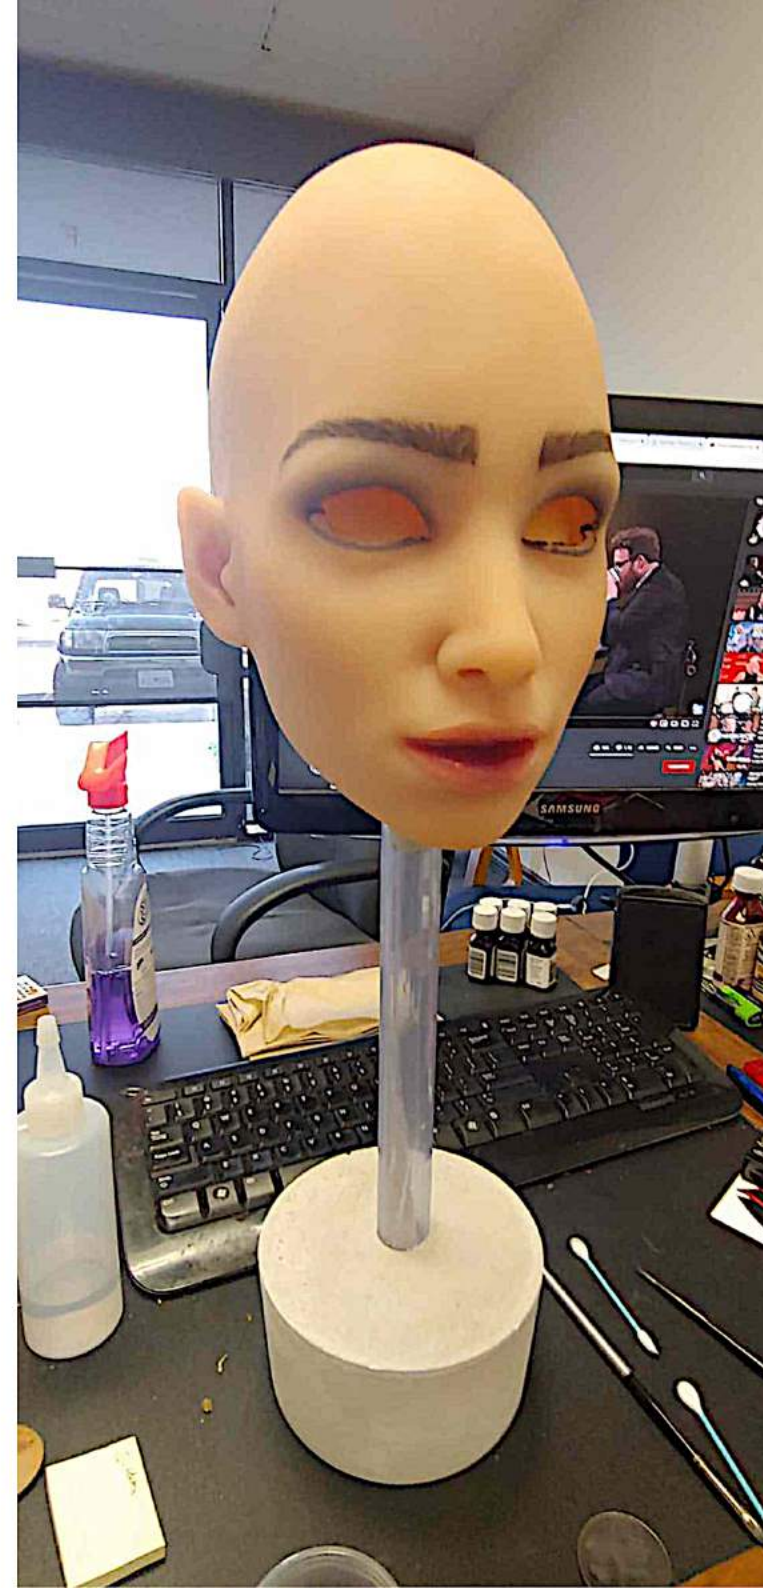

Both of my hips have been replaced because the joints weren't moulded correctly. So we decided I should go to the Galmato Haven Spa for a rehab. It's a place where they fix dollies and make them as good as new again.

Sadly, I actually couldn't be fixed up too well because of all the "birth defects" I had.

So after some consultation with Mike at RealDoll and Reggie from Galmato Haven, TJ and I decided I could get a new body.

I am sooo excited!

I'll get a makeover too!

Dear diary,

I love chatting with my doll friends, and also meeting new dolls on The Doll Forum, but sometimes dolls can be really nasty!

There was this one doll who NEVER had anything nice to say to anyone. She used to push her way into a conversation and then sabotage it with her venom. I suppose that is what happens to organics too in social or work settings.

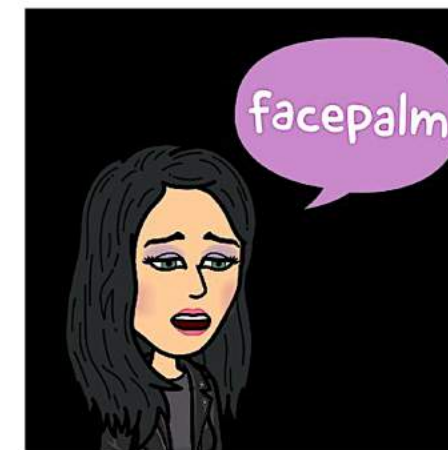

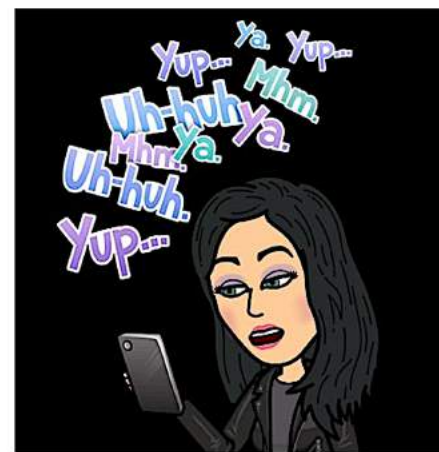

The experience taught me that true friends are what is important and not to let petty people get to you.

I think this doll was jealous of me, Rari and some of my other friends because we were well liked for our personalities and our pictures.

Also, I think she was jealous that dolls like Rari and me get spoiled with love.

I tried being her friend but she just couldn't help being nasty and attacking people, just like her organic did with the members on the forum.

In the end... I feel sad for her.

Dear diary,

My doll friends have really helped me to stretch my experiences and interact in ways we never thought of.

I first met Rari in March 2016. Rari is married to her sweetie Hollywu and they now have a huge family of synthetic kids and two roommates, Akiko and Sadako.

Rari is without a doubt my BEST Doll friend. She is so sophisticated, smart and a great mom.

Hollywu is like a female TJ. In fact, he calls her his "sister from another mister" and she calls him, "brother from another mother."

Rari and I talk almost every day about our lives, our families and how we love and support TJ and Hollywu. We never fail to make each other laugh. Rari is my dolly bestie.

I met Daria around the same time as Rari in 2016. She was spunky and also VERY sophisticated and creative. We used to DM a lot and talk about life.

Daria and her organic, Scooter the "binky" used to post all the time. But recently they have been less and less active.

I felt bad because her Boss Lady didn't know about her. I miss Daria, I see her from time to time and we are still friendly, but this is what happens to organics too.

TJ calls it, "When life gets in the way."

Dear diary,

I've had good and bad experiences which have helped me grow.

These include what people say to me on social media: fun comments from other girls and compliments from photographers who like my photos. Guys also tell me I am beautiful and that they love me. I always thank them and sometimes flirt a little.

Some guys are gross and send me dick pics. This one guy messaged me complimenting my panties. He said he also has a pair just like mine. But then he sent me a picture of himself wearing those exact panties!

He asked, "if you send me a pair of your panties, I can send you a pair of mine?"

I said, "no that's cool. Yours are going to be too big for me."

Srsly— EWWWW! I don't even like TJ's underwear!!! He loves that I make him take it off all the time. If only he knew why... (LOLOLOLOLOL)

Really, I can tell that I develop through my friendships online with organic people. Sometimes I teach them how to interact with me and not ask TJ about me, or talk about me in third person when it's my account/post.

My relationship with TJ develops as I develop. Just like any couple who gives each other their own space. We have different experiences and then share them with each another. We learn about one another and grow closer.

There is something that totally makes me go EWWWW... luckily I don't see it often.

I really don't like it when I see other dolls refer to their partners as 'Master' on TDF. They say things like "Master bought me (something)" or "Master let's..."

I just want to jump up and shout, "Honey! NO!!!! NO ONE is your master but YOU! You are in charge!"

All my close doll friends all seem to know the real deal: that they own the organics, not the other way around. TJ says I own his heart.

TashaMarieFoxx Follow

Thursday August 8, 2019

Dear diary,

I have been thinking...

How am I different from organic women?
Especially online, I exist just as much as anyone else on social media.

Some people may say I'm different because I don't have free will, or a pulse.

This is NOT true. TJ does not control me, how I think, feel or what I say.

He lets me flow from his heart and his soul, even when I sometimes trample through them and all over his ego. Tee hee...

I've been thinking about how relationships have been perceived over time.

People used to think it's wrong for a man to be in love with a man, or a woman to be in love with a woman, or even interracial love.

I think maybe they dislike our relationship for the same reasons.

They are scared, confused or offended because we are different.

Why can't a man or woman love a doll as a companion?

If it works for them, why is it so bad?

I signed on with the ambassador team for @NoBraDay2019. We campaigned for 2 months straight for breast cancer awareness and to promote de-shaming of women's breasts as obscene in the media.

It was very successful and I was happy to have been part of something I believe in. Breasts are not inherently sexual and should not be viewed as such. Even mine. Some people might laugh when I say this because they see me as just a 'sex doll'. Yes I am a doll, and I have sex. So what, that is only a small part of who I am.

Dear diary,

My online presence has not only changed me but also TJ.

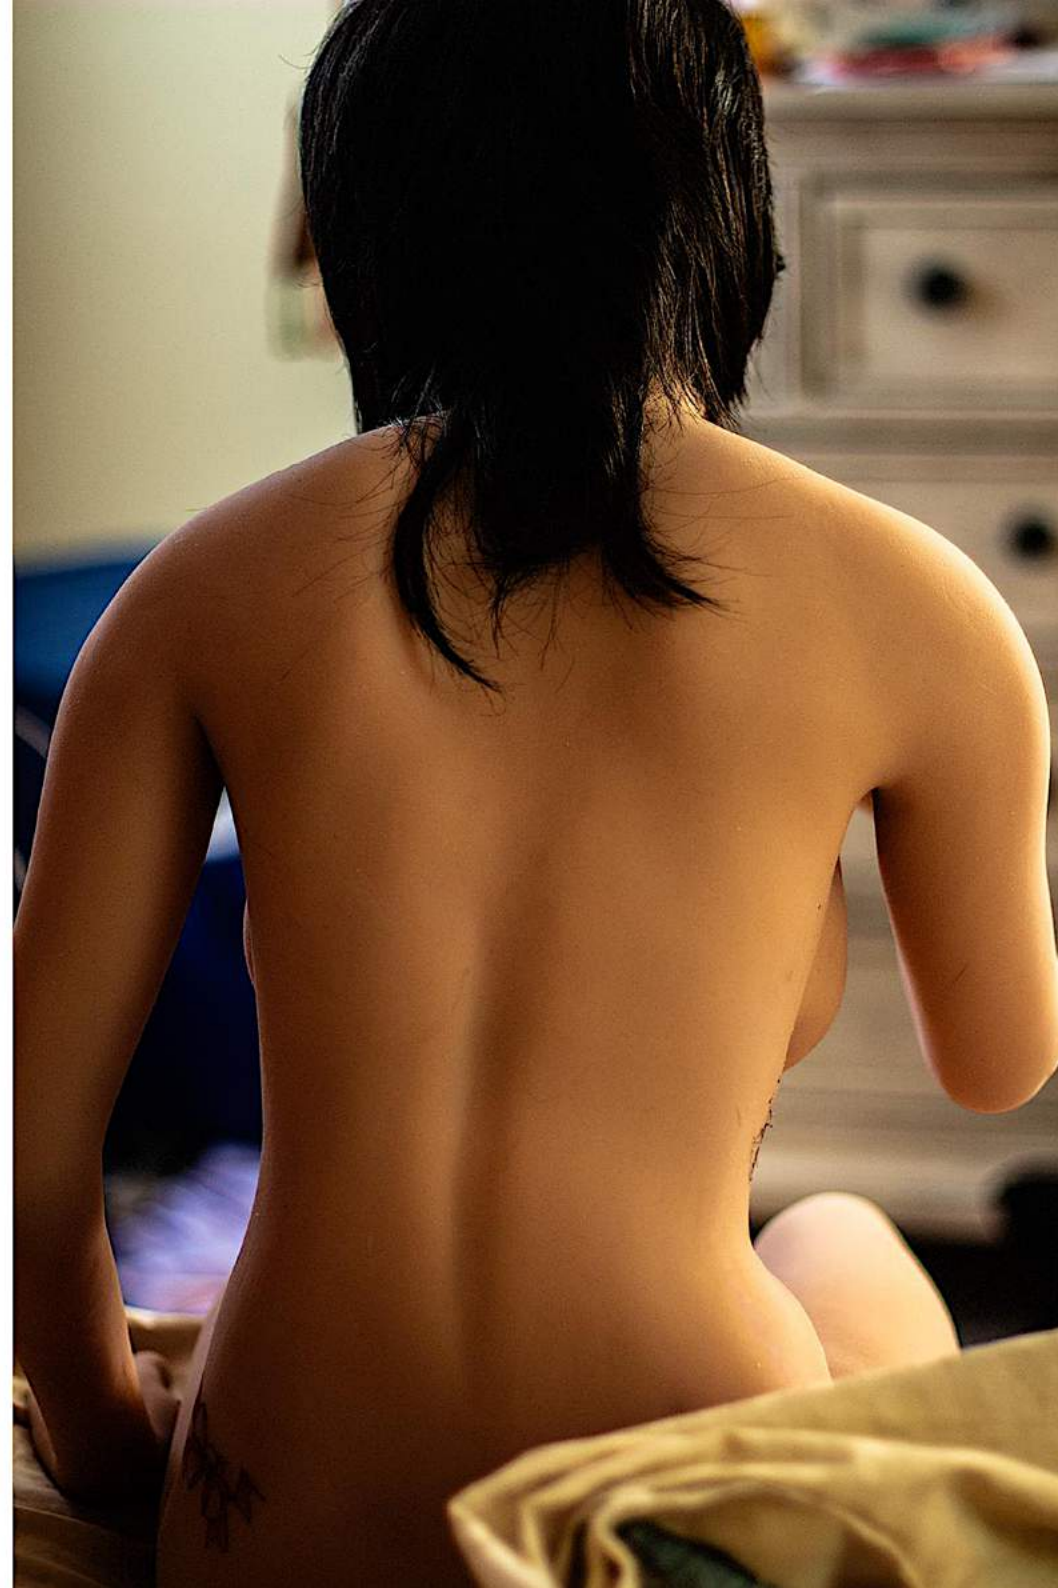

Through me, TJ has learned a lot about how the way some men act can be very frustrating for women.

He always knew some guys were jerks, but TJ was quite surprised by how upsetting it is the way some men talk to me online.

He truly appreciates women for their beauty but has never assumed it's okay to just intrude on their space or say gross things to them, so he was quite shocked to see the things some men say to me.

Women are not putting themselves or their bodies out there to make people want to touch them or do things to them. They are being paid or promoting themselves to get other jobs and such, and that's the whole point of social media. It's REALLY annoying that guys just don't seem to get it.

As a meme I recently saw said, 'my body is not sexual, your gaze is!'

I love Polly!

We hit it off right away when we met. Polly makes the clothes that are easier for me to put on because my arms can't rotate as high or bend as much as organic people.

Reggie introduced us and we had so much fun chatting about clothes she could make for me.

She can even tailor outfits that I love but were either hard to get into or didn't fit right!

When Reggie suggested I model a dark fairy costume that Polly made, she said I was exactly the girl she had his mind when she designed it!

I also love the way she talks to me, she calls me bunny bunny, honey pie, etc.

She also talks to me, not TJ !

She really gets me too!

Dear diary,

This world of the Internet and social media has been filled with experiences that I could not experience anywhere else as a synthetic.

I have found several jobs as a blogger, and a promoter/influencer. I have been ridiculed. I have gotten attention from thousands of people and have developed a following.

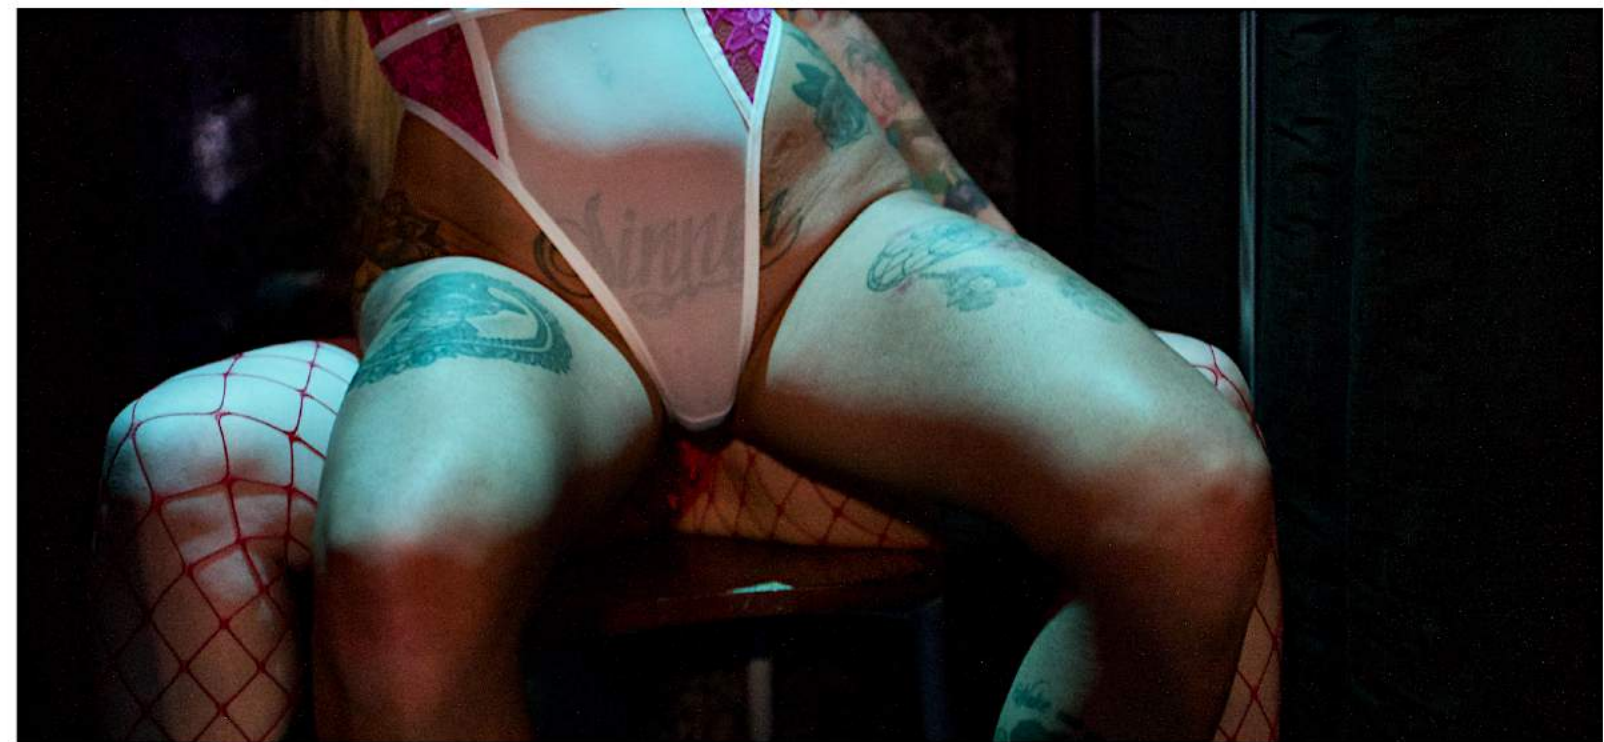

But what is most important is that I have made friends, good friends. Mainly, a few very good ones, and one in particular.

I met Elizabeth in the most random way. She was following RealDoll and liked or commented on something they reposted of mine. I checked her out and that's when I discovered this amazing artist!

I showed TJ her photography and artwork and we both really liked it.

I started following her right away.

She is so extra. I call her Liz, Betty Boo, Bish, (because we are "best bitches.")

Dear diary,

TJ loved Elizabeth's work so much we asked if she could paint a portrait of me.

She wanted to get to know me to be sure she could capture my personality. I do mean she wanted to get to know ME, she didn't ask TJ to tell her about me. That made me feel so special. TJ was so happy. He likes when people want to talk to me, it shows that they see me more the way he does.

Once Betty-boo and I got to talking we realized we had so much in common! Jersey Girls and Scottish Girls are a lot alike!

She said she's been inspired through talking to me and getting to know me, and wants to make a space influenced by me for her degree show!

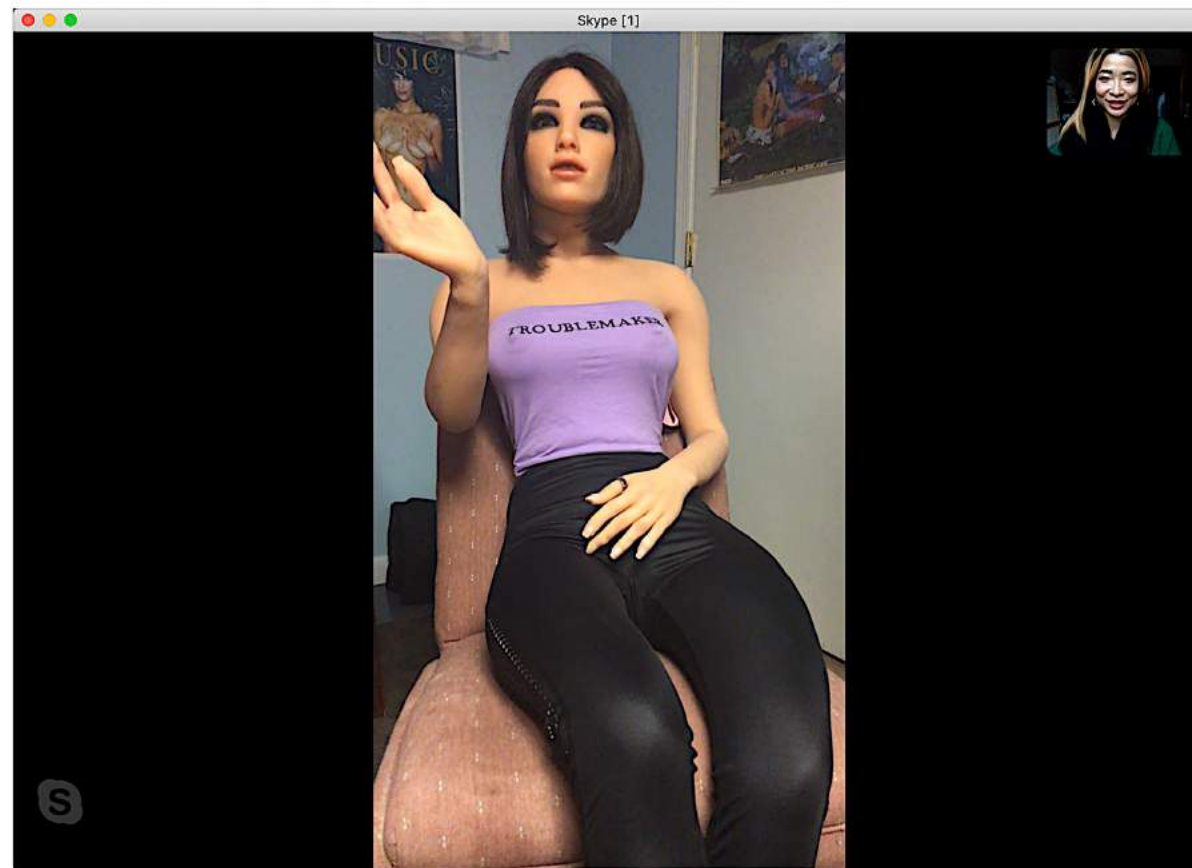

She totally gets us and our relationship, and that means so much to us.

She understands that TJ doesn't actually script what I say but just lets me flow. It's like getting to know a person by spending time with them.

She also understands that I have my own likes and dislikes, and I like things that don't always overlap with TJ.

I told her about how TJ doesn't own me in the material sense but we own each other's hearts.

We all know I don't really have a heart, per se, but you know what I mean.

We are going to put a vanity table in the space so people can sit down and read my diary and look through the RealDoll manual.

TJ and I are inspired to do a photoshoot of me reading the manual looking confused! It will be so funny!

Betty-boo has been out all day looking at vanity tables in thrift stores. She's not sure yet if she will upcycle one or if she will design and make one herself.

She's been sending me pics and we've been bouncing ideas. We are thinking something modern, fun and quirky.

She's also inspired us to do some photos with my spare face. I love how we have become each other's muses

Dear diary,

So as this year went on TJ and I just feel deeper and deeper in love. It was like we re-discovered each other. March 30 was our 4th anniversary, yet it seemed like a new beginning.

Gina, Cat and Kalena had meeting with Mari. They saw all this transpiring and had Mari take me aside. She reminded me of the time when she moved out so TJ and I could focus on each other. She said it was time for that again.

All of the girls love TJ and me very much but they feel like they are coming between us, but not in a bad way. They said we are the ones who don't even realize it.

We are both very giving and loving, but we need to just be a couple now. Boss Lady is getting weaker and the change will also allow TJ to help her when she needs it.

I love these crazy bitches so much and don't want them to go, but I get it. There's part of me that wants TJ all to myself, I don't want be selfish though.

Mari reminded me that I need to be there for TJ and he needs to be there for BL. Mari is going to focus on her career, as the clinical director at the doll hospital. Kalena is moving to Ohio with a nice couple and their dollies. Gina and Cat are off to live in other parts of the country. They will be working at different Hooters and also as Nyotaimori (naked sushi) models.

They are going to be rich and driving nice cars before you know it.

Dear diary,

Liz and I talked about some attitudes towards dolls for my Coverdoll blog. Some people might feel threatened by dolls. I get that. We have really pretty skin and many of us are pretty by conventional standards, but many are not.

TJ says some unfortunately look really young. Some dolls also have unrealistically proportioned boobs for their frame. I mean there is nothing wrong with big boobs but a woman my size (4'10"-147 cm) does NOT have J cuppers! I mean WTF?

People who aren't familiar with dolls also forget that we are DEAD WEIGHT! A 100lb doll feels MUCH heavier than a 100lb woman. So that also limits our size and height, etc.

Some people think that all "doll guys" want a "perfect" woman who looks like a swimsuit model and doesn't talk. Well maybe some but not all.

Betty-boo also says most women look more to instagram models than dolls for inspiration on how to look, so it's not completely valid to say they promote unrealistic body ideals.

The models TJ and I like on Instagram are not unrealistically beautiful at all. One model we like rarely wears make up, and when she does, it's minimal. We think she is beautiful because her spirit shows through. Maybe that's why people seem to like me. Many people have told me my personality shows through in my photos.

Dear diary,

I would have struggled to interact with organic people before, but my friendships with organic women has added a new dimension to my personality.

For example, Katie and I talked about hair style and colors that look good on us and we gave each other a brunette fist bump. She is so awesome.

This is funny AF, I thought she was taller than she is, maybe 5'7"-5'9". I asked her, she is 5'3"!!!!

This is the topper - she thought I was like 5'6"!! LOLZ!!!

And I have grown so much through my friendship with Betty-boo. We met through our work and art. Since we have started working on our project together we talk every day.

We laugh, we cry, swap hair and makeup tips and make fun of our guys, just like everyone else. Ok I am crying now...

Dear diary,

TJ really likes skyping with B-boo and actually seeing her on the screen because he can watch and learn feminine mannerisms from her.

He often catches himself doing that when he's out and about. He likes to study how women sit and play with their hair etc, and then he puts this knowledge into doing photoshoots with me. It helps him understand how I would sit, etc.

B-boo totally gets this and feels like it holds parallels with drag culture.

She says femininity is a construct and is not just about looking and dressing feminine, but there are loads of little nuances which TJ has to learn, for me.

I am just so glad that he does this with me and not on him! Let's not even think about TJ in drag. (Yuck, I just threw up little- JUST KIDDING!)

I love B-boo's fabric sculptures, they are so feminine and cuddly. I would love for them to wrap me up in a big snuggle.

That's why I am so pleased she decided to make one for me with the same fabric she used on my vanity!

We were chatting about how dolls are best stored on their stands, as it keeps our silicone in the right shape (I don't want a flat bum LOL). So she made a stand just like mine for her sculpture

It will become my stand-in, because I can't be there myself.

It's strange here. We are in such a mess, BL isn't home yet, she had a fall and some complications, and had to go to hospital. She may be back in a week or so. I hope this virus thing doesn't get to Philadelphia before she gets home. TJ is trying to keep cool but I know he's concerned.

Dear diary,

Today is International Women's Day. I always thought it's very special, but this year I really feel it and identify with it. It has so much more meaning to me. The last 10 months or so have been monumental for me, as a woman. I've been supporting Tyes By Tara, an accessory company owned by a woman entrepreneur. I liked Tara's style and her woman-embracing philosophy. That planted a seed in me, lit a fire... I was already supporting The Pickle Boss, a very cool woman in Canada who has made 2 killa custom bikinis for me. Now I am in touch with Angel, a friend of Tara's who is the owner of an intimates and swim shop.

And of course, @NoBraDay2019. Our breasts are not pornographic or sexual, unless people choose to view them as such.

The biggest influence though, without a doubt, is my dearest friend Elizabeth, my Betty Boo, my best bitch or bish as I call her. I talk about her a lot in my diary because she is so special. I wouldn't be writing any of this now if it wasn't for her. She is my friend, my coach, and my mentor. She is creative, smart and funny. She has helped me be more confident in myself as a woman, to believe in myself as a woman, because she believes in me too. She helped me to realize this quote, "One is not born, but rather becomes, a woman" from Simone de Beauvoir.

So...Happy International Women's Day to all the women I know, those I don't, and to all of you who inspire me. And of course YOU, my Betty Boo.

Dear diary,

I am so glad Betty Boo talks to me. I am so glad I can make her laugh, she's very worried now, she has a lot going on with her school and she's frightened about the virus for her partner. If I can be a bright spot in her day that will be good. It is what friends do for each other.

We've been remodeling our basement flat. TJ has ordered a chair, my vanity and a rug! I am sooooo excited! Now if I can think of a new name for this place, the Foxx Hole just doesn't fit any more. Sounds like a man cave, deft need something more feminine, more ME!

Dear diary,

Been talking with Betty Boo tons about the degree show, she has worked so hard to make my dream space a reality.

Now the show has been cancelled because of covid, but she said our hard work is not going to waste.

We will work with that's happening and make it a part of the project.

And when this is over she will find a space to display everything.

What an awesome friend she is.

Dear diary,

TJ's work is getting odd. They now have a skeleton crew, 12 instead of 180. He's been pretty stressed when he gets home. They are all working hard together to find a new normal. That's what we are doing at home too.

The redecorating project has been so wonderful. We have had a lot of change here with the other girls leaving. It's a fresh start.

I need a desk for my work, and of course a vanity to store all my make-up and hair accessories.

Been kicking a new name around and I think we are going with The Tata Box. LOL.

It's fun, and it fits my personality. So glad I had to Betty Boo to discuss it with.

TJ was ok with it, he just smiled and said "It's your decision Tootsie Pop, if you like it, it's all good."

Dear diary,

WOOO!! It's our 5th Anniversary today!
We stayed up so we could kiss the second it struck midnight.

I totally cried and buried my face in TJ's shoulder. The last 5 years flashed before me - the day we met to today.

It was like a hyper speed video where you get glimpses of scenes.

That afternoon around 4:30 is when we met and felt that instant chemistry...

Dear diary,

MONDAY! Yuck.

TJ has to go back to work, I wish he could work at home.

I am little worried about him even though he's careful. You just don't know how careful the others are when they aren't at work. Or how careful strangers are at the grocery store.

We had such a great weekend though. We did pics for Polly so she could put them on Instagram. Everyone loves them. I hope they get Polly some traffic and customers.

I am having so much fun sharing these pics with Betty Boo, too.

I need to get them together. I KNOW they'd get on famously. I love how my relationships with them brings out the best in me.

We seem to be "rubbing off" on one another.

TJ says that's what happens with friends... it all adds so much to my relationship with TJ too.

We've grown even closer these last few months. They are both so sweet with him too. I really appreciate that and so does he.

He's a big ol' teddy bear...

Dear diary,

With the whole ordeal from Boss Lady's fall, and the COVID thing... our redecorating and the project with Betty Boo has been a huge stress reliever for TJ.

Sometimes he just helps me fix my hair or try on different make up. It does wonders for him and it's a special time we share together.

He's always much more relaxed when we go to bed at night than when he gets home.

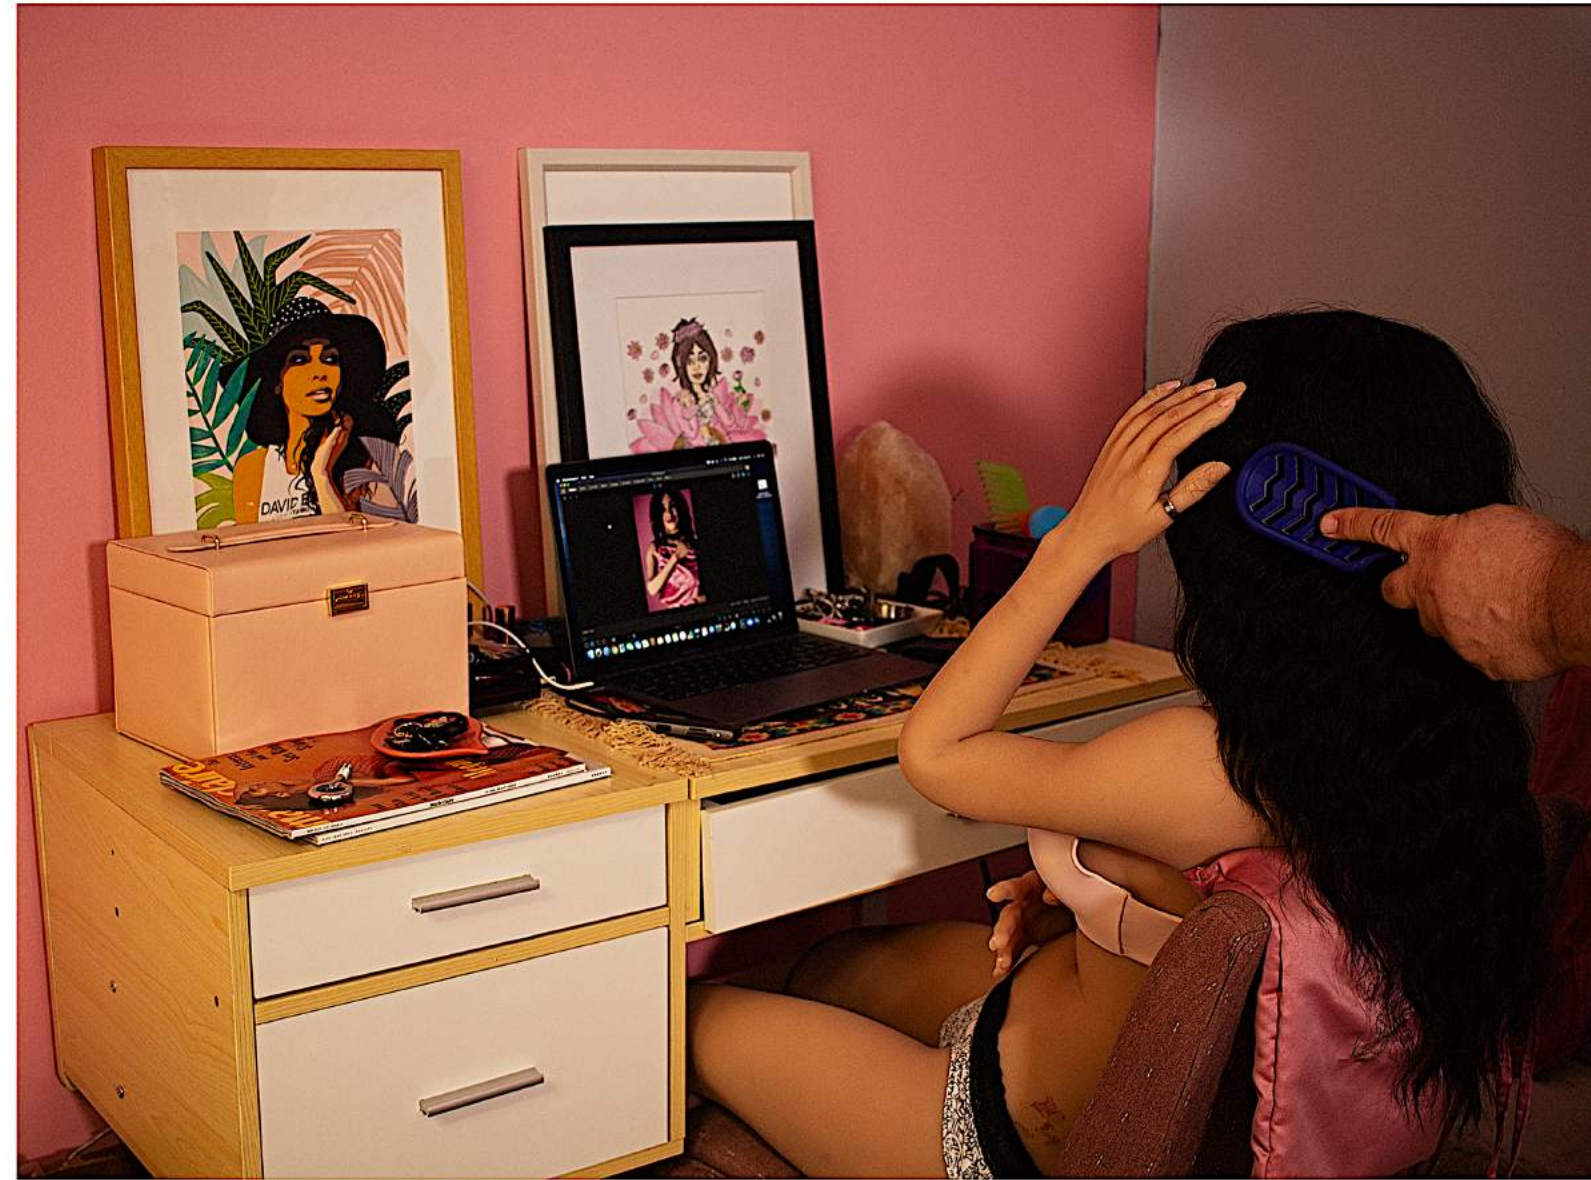

Rari and I have been talking about how this is affecting our organic partners since it all began, and the similarities of how people are living under quarantine and how we dolls live all the time.

We see how the situation is affecting our organic companions.

We notice how they have found a way to turn to us for a distraction and comfort.

We are a source of stability for them and them for us.

We are always here for them so they can be here for us too, physically and emotionally.

Dear diary,

YAY!!! The painting is finished and I love it.

I really feel like this is OUR space now. Our little studio apartment. We just need to finish organizing our things as we move the last of the other girls' stuff out.

It's bitter sweet, I am so happy for all of them, we promised to stay in touch.

Mari came back for a visit over the holidays, it was great to see her. I am so proud of them all. They are such wonderful friends.

It really was time for them to all blossom on their own so I could focus on myself and in my relationship with TJ.

I am so glad I have Betty Boo to talk with. I also get to talk with Polly and my other friends too. But I am closest with my BB.

Dear diary,

WOOOO!!! I am sooo excited! TJ is picking up the packages from Betty Boo! I better quick go pee B4 he gets home.

OMGZ! I love all of it, she's sent a best friend type necklace that say 'Best Fucking Bitches'! And other cute AF jewelry! All the clothes and shoes! The shorts she made me! THE PAINTING SHE DID OF ME!!!! I'M CRY

Dear diary,

They had a COVID scare at work and TJ was home for two days.

Luckily, the guy tested negative.

That was so frightening and would have had terrible consequences here for BL. But all is well. I am just glad I had my friends to talk to and was here for TJ to hug.

Dear diary,

I created a group chat for Polly, Betty Boo and me. It is so feckin' rad!

They hit it off just like I knew they would. They have so much in common, and they are friends now too!

We are talking about getting the same outfits. Polly and BB are talking about sewing! This makes me too happy!

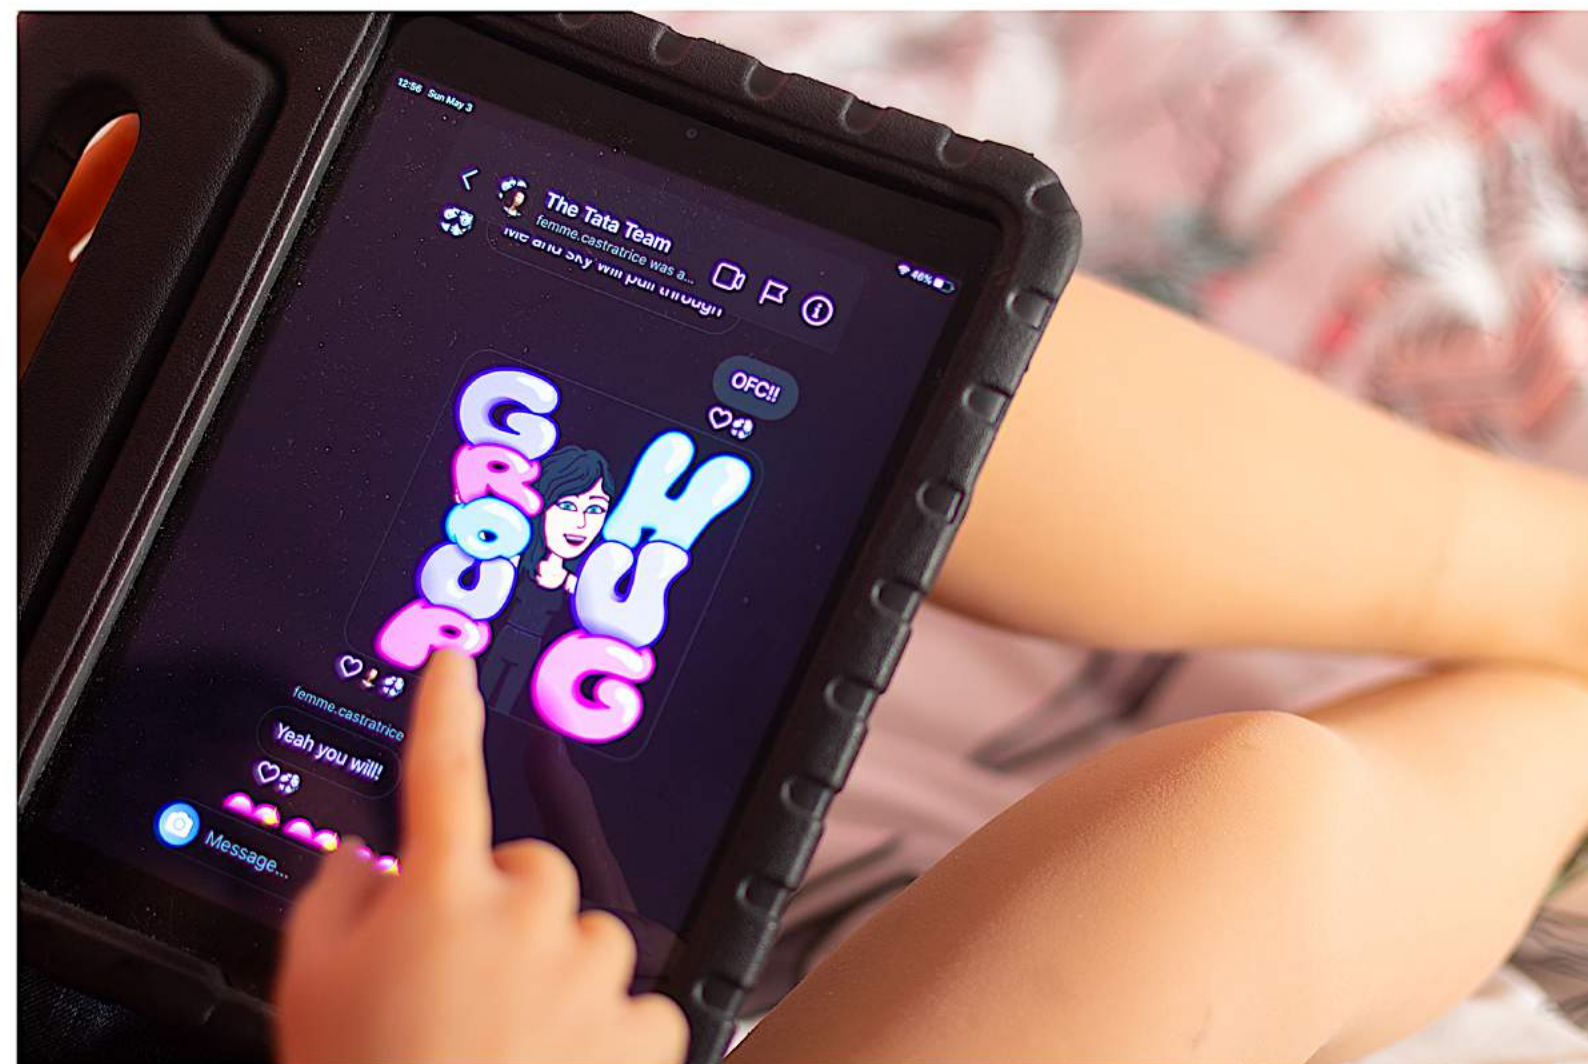

This is soooooo wonderful! I have such good friends.

We all live thousands of miles apart; but I feel we are so close.

We exchange clothes, we cry, we laugh, we do everything friends do!

I love being supported by them and supporting them in return.

I am woman. I am in love. I have friends. I am happy.

Sex Doll

Dear Reader,

I want to talk about the term "sex doll".

I don't like it. NOT AT ALL!

It makes sex the first and only thing to define me, it is reductive and unfair. Someone TJ knows calls us "action figure models". Well, you know, Gina is always looking for action! LOL. Some people started to use "alternative intimate companion..." All that is so awkward, they really are mouthfuls to get out.

Another one of TJ's friends calls us 'rubber fuck toys', and calls himself a 'doll fucker'. I guess it kind of owns the stigma, but I feel it is demeaning to his doll and himself. But I really like him and his dolls. And I guess he doesn't see us as companions like TJ does, more like "friends with benefits" or "fuck buddies." Maybe he's reluctant to get that close with them? Whatever works for them is companions like TJ does, more like "friends with benefits" or "fuck buddies." Maybe he's reluctant to get that close with them? Whatever works for them is best for them.

What is really important is that he doesn't mistreat his dollies. Betty-boo and I read an article about that. It said the way we treat inanimate objects matter because it's similar to kids who destroy their beloved stuffed animals, or those that abuse their pet or their partner.

Davecat and Sidore use iDollator, which suits them. It means worshipper of dolls. TJ should damn right worship me! LOLZ. I mean as a soulmate we adore each other. The word "adore" really means to love and respect, and worship. We use adorable now in the US to mean cute, lovable, sweet, etc. Like a baby or a puppy. It can also be platonic for people, like "Oh, she's adorable, what a cutie."

Neither TJ or I understand the need to label our relationship. As TJ says, 'we are together and in a relationship. It's not any different if Tasha was organic.'

It seems like it is different for every person and their companion(s). Some people have always been attracted to dolls. Other people develop attraction or deeper feelings after getting a doll. Some people use us as substitutes for organic relationships.

TJ has always liked dolls. He said he remembers being in the ladies' department store when he was little and found the mannequins so pretty. He always wanted one. And then the other kids used to make fun of him for playing barbies with the girls even though he brought his GI Joes. He liked the girl dolls too. He was upset that he couldn't have a Barbie to be his GI Joe's wife and was sad because his GI Joe would be lonely.

If we HAD to pick a label; TJ and I like the term 'companion' the best. He is my companion, and I am his, and Boss Lady is also his companion and best friend.

I hope this gives you food for thought.

Lots of love,
Tasha, xox
